4-H club fair opening today. This rumor is without foundation and there are no charges to any part of the grounds. Everything the fair board is running, is entirely free to the public. This does not include the concessions
of course.

Events of Putnam county's 1936
annual 4-H club fair opened this morning at the Robe Ann fair-

the club event until late Saturday night. Judging which started at noon Wednesday in the home eco-

NEW TAXATION NOT NECESSARY EXPERTS HOLD

CONFERENCE HELD IN WASH-INGTON TODAY WITH PRESIDENT

IS ANSWER TO CRITICISM

Declare Business Is Improving And That Revenue Receipts Are Coming In Fast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (UP)— Administration tax experts decided at a conference with President Roosevelt today that no new taxes will be necessary next session because of increasing revenues.

The gesture to answer business
criticism of an unbalanced budget came after a meeting attended by Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

"We have found business conditions improving so much and revenue receipts coming in so fast," said Harrison, "that we can reach the point of a balanced budget sooner than expected."

A letter to the president from Secretary Morgenthau was made public at the same time which said the treasury had concluded that no new taxes or increases in present tax rates are necessary.

It was agreed that tax changes at the next session will be limited to the purpose, according to Mergen-thau's letter "of removing any inequities" in present tax laws and modifying or ending taxes that "create unfairness to consumers or to trade or have other disadvantages which outweigh the revenue yield."

"With continued recovery," Mergen-thau's letter said, "we are steady-ly approaching a revenue yield which will be entirely adequate to cover the expenditures of government and to reduce the public debt."

However, none of the three tax experts would predict when a balanced budget would be reached.

Harrison announced he will immediately call congressional tax experts into session to work with treasury
experts to carry out the suggestions of Morgenthau.

"Any change of course, would probably toward reducing some taxes," he said, citing especially
"taxes where administrative cost virtually wipes out revenue."

Morgenthau said that taxes of this kind were particularly in the "nuisance" tax category.

Morgenthau would not discuss which specific taxes he had in mind.

The cabinet member and the congressional leaders met with the press
after a half hour conference with the president although it was indicated that the decision had really been reached before Harrison and Doughton were called to Washington suddenly yesterday.

Harrison said that there was no discussion of tariff changes due to the drought situation.

The dramatic White House conference broke up three-quarters of an hour before the president was to leave on a tour of Pennsylvania and New York flood areas.

Harrison, involved in a bitter primary struggle in Mississippi, was hastily summoned to the White House yesterday and came here by plane. Doughton was reached at his Sparta, N. C., home and arrived here only a few minutes before the conference.

Among the various nuisance taxes whose abolition may be pushed, are those on gasoline, oil, and numerous luxuries.

The brought taxes particularly have brought resentment from people back home and the announcement that some of them might be discarded was certain to have a political effect.

Harrison and Doughton said that while the study of the tax structure would be inaugurated by members of the congressional joint committee on internal revenue legislation that it was likely open hearings by the senate finance and house ways and means committees would be held later in the fall.

Morgenthau declined to give any estimates as to the increasing yield in new taxes and cautiously avoided committing himself on what changes should be made.

"As you know," he said, "the treasury never makes any direct recommendations on tax changes."

Mrs. James Harlan, age 78 years, Hanna street, who is confined to the Putnam county hospital with a fractured hip, is reported critical.

VILLAGES IN DANGER

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 13.
(UP)—Fires raced through the forests of northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan toward smokechoked settlements where park and conservation officials mustered fresh battalions of volunteers and recruits
to check their advance.

One major blaze leaped fire lines and spread faster than a man can run toward the villages of Bassett, Toimi and Fairbanks, in northern Minnesota. Observers said it was out of control.

Blazing virgin timber ringed the Chippewa harbor settlement on Isle Royale in Lake Superior. Coast guard cutters and private vessels stood off shore ready to remove re-sortists and fishermen as the flames advanced within a half mile of their homes. Nearly 50,000 men fought the fires.

FIRE RAZES SAW MILL AT BAINBRIDGE

ROACHDALE AND LADOGA FIRE-MEN AID IN FIGHTING
BLAZE

Fire of unknown origin razed a saw mill owned by Elvin Robbins in Bainbridge Wednesday evening.

According to reports the alarm was turned in about 1:30 last night and the entire sawmill was in flames before fire fighters could reach the scene.

Within a short time most of the populace of the north Putnam town
was at the scene of the conflagration.
The mill was located in the south
edge of the town.

Fire fighting apparatus from Roachdale and Ladoga arrived and the men were able to save a portion of cut lumber.

A bucket brigade was formed by citizens but combined efforts with the Roachdale and Ladoga contingent apparently was of little avail.

The mill was a total loss and the owner said that there was no insurance covering the damage.

Reports from over the county indicated that the blaze was visible from many points several miles from Bainbridge. The mill was still burning Thursday morning.

AAA May Drop All Restrictions On Wheat, Corn Planting For 1937

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 — A government "Go ahead" signal for unlimited plantings of wheat and corn for 1937 was discussed by AAA officials today as the drought cut deeper into the current grain crop.

Definite assurance that wheat acreage will be expanded came from officials after a preliminary conference —headed by J. B. Hutson, the acting farm administrator—on next season's soil conservation program.

Some AAA leaders indicated privately that no federal payments for soil conservation next year would be conditioned on restraint of either wheat or corn seedings.

A definite announcement awaited
AAA administrator, who, officials said, is conducting a series of field conferences in which producers "will determine for themselves" whether they want any control of grain acreage.

"Under the 1936 program," one official pointed out, "there was an increase of more than 3,000,000 acres
over 1935 in corn acreage and a 13
per cent increase in winter wheat acreage."

He added that if increased acreage and favorable weather resulted in the accumulation of burdensome supplies
next year there was possibility Secretary Wallace's "ever-normal granary" plan would be invoked. This plan calls for storage of surpluses in good years for use in lean years.

The discussions here coincided with an assertion by Wallace in Chicago
that he hoped the next Congress would pass a crop insurance law. On a previous occasion he had said that crop insurance and the "ever-normal granary" together would reduce drought and surplus hazards "to a fortunate minimum."

The Agriculture Department reported cattle being fed for market in corn belt states on Aug. 1 were about 3 per cent more numerous than last year. Increases were listed for all states east of the Mississippi River and for Minnesota and Iowa.

where he operated a drug store.

3 Die; 11 Hurt In State Mishaps

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 13, (UP)—Accidents in Indiana yesterday claimed the lives of three persons and injured a dozen others.

Two of the fatalities resulted from traffic accidents and the third death was caused from fatal burns.

While supervising a street repair job in Frankfort, Roy Pence, 52 year old WPA foreman, fell into a cauldron of hot tar and was burned fatally.

Everett Gentry, 26, was killed instantly and four other persons injured when their car plunged from the highway near Evansville and crashed into a tree. The driver, Kenneth Green, 20, said he was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine.

Injuries suffered when a truck ran into a utility pole near Paoli were fatal to John Estes, 26, of Louisville, Ky. A companion, Edward Slaten, also of Louisville, was injured seriously.

Two army trucks collided on United States road 31 near Rochester and caused injuries to five soldiers, members of Battery B, 19th Field Artillery, stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indianapolis.

Hunters' Aid Asked To Prevent Fires

An appeal to squirrel hunters in Putnam county for aid in preventing grass and forest fires which destroy the food and shelter for game birds and animals as well as farm crops and timber was made today by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the department of conservation. The squirrel season opened Monday in 69 central and southern Indiana counties.

Under normal conditions there is an increase in the number of grass and forest fires following the opening of the hunting season but this year the many weeks of drought and only scattered rains, make the period very ripe for damaging fires.

Matches, cigarettes, cigars and pipe ashes should be carefully extinguished before they are discarded; camp fires should be put out with water and every precaution taken to prevent sparks reaching dry grass, leaves and brush.

The county clerk reported today that more than 1,200 hunting licenses had been issued up to this time of the present year, a substantial increase over the amount issued for the same period in 1935. The increase indicated, the clerk said, that Putnam county nimrods in large numbers are tramping the woods in search of game.

LOYALISTS IN ATTACK ON OVIEDO

SEEK TO DEAL DECISIVE BLOW
AGAINST REBEL
OPPOSITION

MADRID, Aug. 13, (UP)—Loyalists have opened an attack in force on Oviedo in an effort to break the long siege and deal a decisive blow to rebel hopes in the far north, it was announced today.

Socialist Deputy Gonzalez Pena, leader of the Asturias miners in the revolt of October, 1934, has gone to assume the post of commander in chief of the besieging forces.

He informed the government that he believed the city might fall within 24 hours.

Concentrating its aerial strength, the government opened up its announced bombing attack of all rebel areas.

The rebel cities of Segovia and Avila were bombed and a rebel artillery battery was destroyed near Sigüenza.

It was announced that loyalists stormed and captured an important strategic point near Granada.

Catalonian leaders wireless the government that loyalist forces have reached the vicinity of Zaragoza and are prepared to attack.

The capture of Oviedo would be perhaps the greatest success to date. It would release scores of thousands of tough, well armed Asturias miners and their supporting forces for activity elsewhere in the north.

For seven days now, the miners have surrounded Oviedo, after a fierce fight for control of the area.

For four weeks, since the beginning of the revolt, the city has been isolated. It is short of food and water and its population of 60,000 is suffering.

Col. Miguel Aranda, the rebel commandant, has fortified his position strongly, government reports say. But Gonzalez Pena is confident that the siege has so weakened the garrison that capture by mass attack will prove not only feasible but relatively easy.

It is indicated that the fight will be a savage one. The miners remember well the ruthless suppression of their 1934 revolt by men of the Foreign Legion sent from Morocco, and Gonzalez Pena himself was sentenced to death for his leadership. Little mercy is likely to be shown rebel leaders.

It was announced that the situation on the Guadarrama front, in the mountains north of Madrid, was relatively quiet.

A war ministry communique said that rebels at some points in the west were trying to flee across the Portuguese frontier.

It was asserted that rebel commanders were unable to send airplanes to aid the beleaguered rebel garrisons in the Balearic islands because their planes have not sufficient flight radius.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Jackson and children were afternoon guests. Another son Jennings Sanford of Florida was not present for the celebration.

MUST SHARE DAUGHTER

The diary, in which she concealed an extra-marital love for Dr. Thorpe, was found by Judge Knight. The disposition of the diary was known only to Dr. Thorpe, his attorney, and the court, but it was understood that Judge Knight would find it in such a way that it can do no further damage to Miss Astor.

her former husband.
Miss Astor did not wish the diary to remain in her former husband's hands, lest it be used against her again. Dr. Thorpe wanted to keep it lest Miss Astor attempt again to obtain full custody of Marilyn. The solution finally was solved by a secret disposition that will prevent the fears of either party coming true.
"It is part of the agreement," Anderson said, "that no one, save the litigants, their counsel, and the court ever will know what becomes of the diary. It will always remain a mystery."

The agreement, drawn up by the lawyers and approved by Douglas L. Edmonds, presiding judge of the Los Angeles superior court, was understood to provide that Marilyn will be in her mother's custody during the school months, and that during all vacations, with the exception of Christmas, she will be in her father's charge. The parents will share the child during the Christmas holidays.

Indiana's Corn Cut By Drouth

1936 CROP WILL BE SHORT MILLIONS OF BUSHELS, SAYS PURDUE EXPERT

As a result of the continued dry, hot weather during July and the fifth successive month of deficient rainfall, the forecasted production of Indiana's corn crop on August 1 was only 111,900,000 bushels as compared with 160,474,000 bushels last year and the five year (1928-32) average of 155,968,000 bushels, according to the monthly crop report issued today by the department of agricultural statistics of the Purdue university agricultural experiment station in cooperation with the U. S. department of Agriculture.

The report, issued as of August 1, revealed that corn condition was 46 per cent of normal, which is 29 points below the average from 1923 to 1932, and that much of the early corn in all sections of the state was beyond help. The condition of the later corn was reported as spotted due to local rains, and in many localities the line between good corn and poor corn was quite distinct.

Wheat, however, with harvesting done under most favorable conditions, was yielding better than expected in all sections, with the quality and test quite generally above average. A yield of 17.5 bushels per acre and a production of 32,200,000 bushels was estimated, as compared with last year's production of 29,109,000 bushels and the average from 1928 to 1932 of 26,458,000.

Unfavorable growing weather was reflected in the sub-normal condition of other field crops. The oats yield was forecast at 24 bushels per acre and a production of 32,064,000 bushels, as compared with 38,610,000 bushels last year, while barley condition was reported at 59, two points below the month previous, and the yield forecast at 17 bushels per acre. Rye was threshing out better than expected, the estimated yield being 12 bushels per acre and a production of 1,188,000 bushels.

Potatoes were hard hit, the condition being reported at 39 per cent of normal, 15 points below last month and 41 points below the ten year average. A state yield of 60 bushels per acre was estimated. Sweet potato condition dropped four points during the month, as compared with an average drop of two points, to 53 per cent of normal.

Due mainly to late July rains over the principal growing sections, tobacco improved five points in condition during the month, but the stands generally were poor and the plants small for August.

Soybeans were reported as 52 per cent of normal, as compared with 83 last year and the ten year average of 77, but the crop has withstood the drouth well and was still in a position to benefit greatly from rain. Cowpeas were reported as 54 per cent of normal as compared with 71 per cent last year.

Tame hay condition was reported at 52 per cent of normal, alfalfa at 53 per cent, and clover at 50 per cent, with a total production of 1,898,000 tons of all tame hay forecast, as compared with 2,586,000 tons last year. It was reported that few clover fields have made much second growth and the second cutting of alfalfa was light, further cutting depending on rains. Grain hay was reported as yield 60 tons per acre. Pasture condition was reported as 23 per cent of normal, or 50 points below the ten year average, with most of the feed that remained in pastures as dry as hay.

As far as the fruits are concerned, the dry weather caused a considerable apple drop and reduced the size of the fruit remaining on the trees. Apple production was estimated at 270,000 bushels, while peach prospects were for a nominal crop of 12,000 bushels. Generally, pears withstood the dry weather well and a crop of 50,000 bushels was expected, but many grape vines were showing dry, burned leaves, and the heat and dry weather were preventing normal sizing of the fruit.

Chapter I

"I WOULD WIN YOU AN EMPIRE"

It was the year 1757. The Seven Years' War was in progress, fought on three continents. George II was on the British throne, a cantankerous little ruler of the House of Hanover, and the great Pitt was his prime minister.

Pitt favored a vigorous prosecution of the war in North America, an advance against General Montcalm and his Huron Indian allies, with the regiments under Colonel Munro, stationed at Albany, as the spearhead of the attack. He proposed the sending of reinforcements.

In this he was opposed by the pompous and indolent Newcastle, who dismissed the whole North American continent as a mere wilderness.

"Give it back to the Indians," he said contemptuously. "This war will be decided in Europe. Concentrate our forces there for a general attack on the main French army!"

The puffy monarch nodded slow agreement; the argument sounded plausible. Pitt only smiled.

"Your majesty," he said, "His Grace would win you a battle—"

The Outpost at Albany

I would win you an Empire!" His epigram decided the issue. With a few words he settled the fate of a continent.

Newcastle exploded with rage: "Your Majesty," he fumed, "Pitt is mad as a hatter!" The King threw him a withering glance. "Mad is he? Well, I wish he'd bite some of my other ministers."

The jubilant Pitt rushed immediately with the news to the Duke of Marlborough, Britain's great military genius.

"We've won, my Lord," he exclaimed.

"Good," said the Duke. "The sloop of war, Andromeda, is standing by to take Major Heyward here to the Americas. He should be there in six weeks." Marlborough turned to the Major. "Immediately on your arrival in New York proceed at once to Colonel Munro. Alas, you will remain there as second in command."

"Yes, my Lord."

"You may find it difficult to adapt yourself to the new country."

"The British Army," said Heyward proudly, "has always adapted a new country to England, sir."

The Duke's eyes twinkled. "Mayhem! My respects to Colonel Munro—and you won't forget his two charming daughters."

Heyward grinned. "No, sir."

In Albany, New York, frontier outpost of the British colony, Colonel Munro's two charming daughters, Alice and Cora, were being entertained by a wealthy Dutch patroon, in one of the most magnificent mansions in the whole territory.

Outside the house were grouped

Advance Plans For State Fair

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 13—A total of 125,000 tickets to the state fair have been printed and will be sold until 6 p. m. Friday, September 4 at half price, of twenty-five cents each. M. Clifford Townsend, commissioner of agriculture, said today.

The fair will pay $25,000 in prizes for grand circuit horse races alone and will include many new features. Townsend said.

The fair will open Saturday September 4, at half price, of club day and will continue throughout Friday, September 11. On the opening day children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Sunday has been designated as Veterans' Day, Monday will be Labor Day; Tuesday, Fathers' Day; Wednesday, Educational and Children's Day; Thursday, Governor and Legislators' Day, and Friday Manufacturers' Day, Townsend said.

Arrangements have been made to house 200 boys who have exhibits at the fair in a boys' club camp. A home economics school will be conducted for girls.

soldiers, British and Colonial, chatting and dancing with girls of the town to the tune of the music that issued from the lighted windows. Their mock minuets were broken up by a Colonial who began to play a hoe-down on a battered flute. Others clapped hands, or broke into their own fantastic dance, to the great enjoyment of the British soldiers.

Lax discipline prevailed throughout the town. There was no dream of war or danger. Topsy soldiers drank, gambled and caroused with equally tipsy camp-women.

Through these scenes strode Gamut, a lank, Puritan chaplain, stern and grim visaged, eyeing the embracing couples and the gamblers with considerable disdain.

"A pretty picture," he exclaimed, half to himself, "With victory and death in the offing, you dice for gold."

"And what's better to dice for?" a tipsy woman asked.

"You can misspind gold and make more," said Gamut, "but you can't misspind a life and buy back your soul."

No one else heeded him. The soldier rolling the dice cried out gleefully—"Made it!"—and reached for the money. But Gamut thrust forth a restraining hand.

"Your point, my good man, was eight, not nine."

The clatter of horses' hoofs resounded, and a four-horse coach came dashing madly down the post-road, pulling to a halt in front of the gambling soldiers. A few Colonials looked up curiously. Major Heyward descended, followed by Jenkins, his orderly. The Major addressed himself sharply to one of the bored Colonials, who was puffing contentedly away at a pipe:

"You there! Direct me to Colonel Munro!"

Without taking his pipe from his mouth, the Colonial thumbed over his shoulder in the direction of the Patroon's residence. Major Heyward wheeled about without a word, and set out for the house, but his orderly was indignant at this lack of respect.

"Are you in the habit of addressing an officer with a pipe in your mouth?"

The Colonial eyed Jenkins coolly, and slowly removed his pipe. "No-o-o-o," he said thoughtfully, "sometimes I chew snuff."

Jenkins turned away indignantly, and began to remove the Major's trunks from the carriage. There were a number of them, and they were heavy. The Colonial good-naturedly approached and lent a hand.

"Thanks, matey," said Jenkins, relenting.

The Colonial cast a sober eye over the baggage and seemed impressed.

"The Major travel light, don't he?" he inquired.

The irony was wasted on Jenkins. "Oh," he said, "the Major don't mind roughing it."

Estimate 1936 Campaign Will Cost $17,000,000.

William Bell

As the 1936 presidential race swings into high gear, it is interesting to conjecture what the campaign will cost. Judging by past records and current estimates total expenditures of the two parties in their efforts to put their respective candidates in the White House will amount to nearly $17,000,000. Radio, advertising and organization work are the three principal items. More than $1,250,000 will probably be spent by Republicans and Democrats this year in their battle over the airwaves. More than half the money spent on a presidential campaign is expended by state, city and county political machines, the balance representing the outlay of the national organization. William Bell is in charge of filling the Republican war chest while Frank Walker holds the corresponding Democratic job. Walker was formerly with the work relief administration.
